1) What's going on between US & India on rice

- The US has imposed higher tariffs on rice imports from India. As of August 2025, a 25% tariff was introduced on Indian goods (including rice).
- The tariff rise, along with concerns expressed in the US about “dumping” — i.e. selling rice at low prices to undercut local producers — has led to renewed scrutiny of Indian rice imports by US authorities and media.
- Further, exporters in India claim that US demand for Indian rice is fairly niche — most buyers are ethnic communities valuing aromatic varieties (like basmati) with specific taste/quality characteristics that US-grown rice doesn't match.

2) European Union – India Trade Deal: Implications for Indian Economy & Exports

- As of December 2025, India and EU are working to finalise a long-pending free trade agreement (FTA). The deal could have major implications for Indian exports, trade policy, regulatory changes and Indian businesses.
- What are pros and cons of such FTAs? How will Indian industries (automobile, agriculture, textiles, services) be affected? What should India's negotiation strategy be?

3) Slowdown of global economy & evolving global trade environment

- According to International Monetary Fund (IMF), global economic growth is slowing — 2025 and 2026 growth projections have been revised downward.
- The world is seeing increasing economic uncertainty due to protectionism, shifting supply chains and trade tensions, which is reshaping global trade dynamics.
- How changing global economic environment affects emerging markets, multinational companies, cross-border investments, and supply-chain strategies.
